

Leading Millennials and iGeneration

We have all heard about generational differences, but how do these differences impact your leadership? Rob (a millennial) and Terry (a GenXer) will help you explore what Millennials and GenXers can learn from each other about leadership, and how to put those lessons into practice when working with the upcoming iGeneration.

Terry English is the Director of Learning and Development for Josiah Venture. Prior to moving to the Czech Republic 22 years ago, he also worked with youth and student outreach ministries in the USA, UK, and Norway. While his focus is now on equipping local churches, he also continues to work with a local youth ministry and other outreach initiatives in the Czech Republic so that he can keep his finger on the pulse of current trends in culture, and is an elder his local church.

Rob Chestnut is the Director of Training for Josiah Venture, a youth ministry organization serving Central and Eastern Europe. He studied organizational communications at Cedarville University before moving to the Czech Republic in 2003 where he found a passion for working with young people both in Europe and America. He and his wife, Audrey, joined Josiah Venture in 2010 and served in their English camp ministry for 6 years before moving back to America to serve in their home church. He returned to Josiah Venture in 2019 settling in Ostrava, Czech Republic with Audrey and their two young girls. He loves to train up young people to know Jesus more, discuss great stories that unite us, and bring history alive for others to experience.

1. Introduction: The importance of understanding cultural differences
 - Acts 17: 16-34
 - 1 Corinthians 9: 19-23

2. Generational Differences – what do we know?
 - Baby Boomers
 - Generation x
 - Generation y (millennials)
 - iGeneration

