

Communicating the Gospel to Europe's Secularized Youth

Millions of Millennials and Gen-Zs in Europe and around the world will not step foot into a church. Despite an epidemic of loneliness and sexual brokenness, this is a generation that does not look to the Church for answers but believes it to be irrelevant to their lives. Yet at the same time, there is an incredible spiritual hunger among people. What does it look like to communicate the Gospel effectively to Europe's secularized youth?

Luke Greenwood is British by birth, grew up in Brazil, and now lives in Wroclaw, Poland, with his wife Ania and their two children. He serves as the European Director for Steiger, a mission dedicated to reaching the Global Youth Culture for Jesus. Together with the Steiger Europe team, Luke has helped develop an evangelistic and discipleship movement in over 30 cities across Europe in the past 5 years, and prays for dynamic missionary teams reaching secular culture in every major European city. Luke wrote a book called Global Youth Culture: The Spiritual Hunger of the Largest Unreached Culture Today, which came out in 2019.

I. Introduction

A. The largest unreached culture

B. Where are the missionaries for this generation?

II. Jesus Goes After the Lost (John 4:7-9)

A. A missionary God

B. Who are the people we might avoid today?

III. Jesus Provokes Their Spiritual Hunger (John 4:10-26)

A. A need they're not aware of

B. Resisting Jesus

C. A spring of water welling up inside

IV. Jesus Invites Us to Join His Mission (John 4:28-42)

- A. The rejected woman becomes a bold missionary to her own town

- B. The best front-line missionaries

- C. We need to invest in missionary and evangelistic actions

V. Application

- A. Going after and provoking this lost generation.

- B. Preaching the Gospel again!

- C. Raising up a new missionary movement