

Understanding Witchcraft

God unambiguously condemns witchcraft in the Scriptures. What is the appeal of witchcraft to those drawn to it? Is it real and does it work? Do witches consciously align themselves with Satan? How do we protect our people from the influences of witchcraft? This lecture will examine these and other questions.

Kevin Lewis is a Professor of Theology and Law at Biola University. He has degrees in Religious Studies (B.A., CSULB), Systematic & Historical Theology (M.Div. & Th.M., Talbot School of Theology), and Law (J.D., Whittier law School). He has taught at Biola University for two decades both in the Theology Department at Talbot School of Theology and in the M.A. Christian Apologetics Program, focusing on the fields of Polemical & Elenctic Theology, Systematic Theology, Christian Apologetics, Theology and Law integration, and Jurisprudence & Public Policy. He is the Founder and President of the Institute for Theology & Law, a practicing attorney and a partner at the Law Office of Lewis & Lewis, and an affiliate attorney with the Pacific Justice Institute. He is an active lecturer and seminar speaker at churches, colleges, and conferences and has appeared on many radio programs and television shows addressing a variety of theological, legal, political, and apologetics topics.

Introductory Comments on Witchcraft

The Relationship Between Neo-Paganism and Witchcraft

Related Concepts

Occult

Satanism

Goddess Worship

The Connection Between Witchcraft and Magick

Types of magick

The Connection between the Occult and Demons

The Modern Witchcraft Revival & Contemporary Witchcraft
Witchcraft, Pluralism & Relativism

The Witchcraft Worldview

The Theoretical Framework & Practices of Witchcraft

The Biblical View of Witchcraft

What the Bible Says About Witchcraft
Deut. 18:10-12

Gal. 5:20

Biblical Critique of Witches Views

Philosophical Critique of Witchcraft
Problems with the Witch's View of Truth and Knowledge

The Problem of Evil in Witchcraft