

Strong Foundations: The Prayers of Many

In 2 Corinthians 1:11, we read “You also must help us by prayer, so that many will give thanks on our behalf for the blessing granted us through the prayers of many.” Paul in his writings often urges the need for prayer in order that his mission will be fruitful. He simply cannot conceive that doing what he is attempting will be fruitful at all without large scale, ongoing “prayers of many.” The Church in the global South and East can teach the church in the western world much about gospel advance. One obvious stand-out example is the priority placed on corporate prayer by churches in non-western contexts. In this session, Mike and the team will explore the why and the how corporate prayer in the local church can once again become the driver for gospel fruitfulness it should be. It is the contention of this session that Europe needs a movement of prayer in order to ignite a movement of gospel advance. The one cannot happen without the other.

Tuuli Platner is the daughter of missionaries and a third culture kid; living in two different continents by age 7 before her family settled in the UK long-term. Now she is all grown up and has the privilege of serving the local church within student ministry and God's wider church in her media and communications role at Relational Mission. Most recently, she has also stepped into a new adventure of living missionally in a diverse community in the heart of London.

I. Prayers of Many

A. Paul facing challenge in his mission

B. Works this out through prayer – not team meetings and reinforcements

1. A collective weight of the prayers of many
2. Spurgeon: “Someone said that 2000 or 3000 had no more power in prayer than 2 or 3. I think that is a grave mistake in many ways. Have you never noticed that when many together praying, warmth of desire and glow of earnestness are greatly increased.”
3. Pete Greig: “The last 30 years revolutionized worship in the local church. Imagine what would have happened if the same energy, creativity and focus had gone transforming prayer.”

C. 1 Corinthians 15:3 - Christ dying for our sins is the ‘first importance doctrine’ for the local church.

1 Timothy 2:1 - corporate prayer is the ‘first importance practice’ for local church practice.

Do we line up with his emphasis on both doctrine and practice?

- B. DA Carson: “The easiest thing about prayer is giving up, like the little boy who rings the doorbell, then runs away!”
- C. Andrew Murray: “Let Christians awake and hear the message your prayer can obtain what otherwise will be withheld, can accomplish what otherwise remains undone. God longs to give but holds the blessing back.
- D. Jonathon Edwards: “That which God makes the abundant subject of his promises, God’s people should make the abundant subject of their prayers.
