Christian Counseling: An Integrated and Biblical Approach

There are many different schools and approaches in counselling and psychotherapy. Can Christians use insights from these within a biblical framework or should we just use the Bible? How and why do Christians differ in their responses to this question? We will take a bird’s eye view of the history of the development of secular and Christian counselling in order to see more clearly where we are today in our answers to this all important dilemma.

Richard Winter is one of the leaders of the European Christian Counselors Network. He is currently Professor of Practical Theology and Director of Covenant Seminary’s counseling program in St Louis, USA. He is also a Psychotherapist and Counsellor who was trained in Medicine and Psychiatry in England before being on the staff and a director of the English branch of the L’Abri Fellowship for 14 years. He has served in a variety of pastoral and teaching leadership roles in the church. He is the author of When Life Goes Dark: Finding Hope in the Midst of Depression, IVP 2012; Perfecting Ourselves to Death: The Pursuit of Excellence and the Perils of Perfectionism, IVP, April 2005; Still Bored in a Culture of Entertainment: Rediscovering Passion and Wonder, IVP, 2002; Choose Life, A study of abortion and other reproductive technologies (Out of Print), and professional journal articles. He is married, with four children and eight grandchildren.
