Honest Answers to Honest Questions:
The Bible and Sexuality

In recent years the issue of the sexuality has become perhaps the hardest issue for Christians to speak about. The church has often been labelled as homophobic and intolerant by the media. Some Christian responses to this issue have been unhelpful and have caused greater problems. Others feel silenced by the weight of pressure against them. We will look at how we can we wisely respond to this issue evangelistically and make a positive case for the Bible's teaching about sex.

Michael Ots is an evangelist and apologist based in Bournemouth, England. He speaks at University mission weeks across Europe as well as training students in evangelism. He is the author of two books, the first of which, What kind of God?, has been translated into Romanian, Korean, Serbian, Spanish and Russian. He is also actively involved in the evangelistic ministry of his local church.

Lindsay Brown is a native of Wales. He studied European History at Oxford (MA) and Theology at the Free Faculty of Theology at Vaux-sur-Seine, near Paris, under Henri Blocher. He has been involved in student ministry with IFES for over 30 years, serving variously as European Regional Secretary, International General Secretary and currently heads up the newly formed FEUER (Fellowship of Evangelists in the Universities of Europe) - a network formed by a joint effort of UCCF, the British student movement and IFES, the international evangelical student body - which has as its aspiration the renewal of public communication of the gospel in the universities of Europe. Its current goal is to host 36 university mission weeks in 36 cities in 36 countries in 36 months and to develop a Europe-wide network of at least 60 university evangelists. He will be leading the Evangelism Network.

I. Is the church against sex?

II. Sex is great!

III. God’s blueprint for sexuality
IV. Why the limitations?

V. Something greater than sex

Recommended Reading